QUOTE. Well, the Cuban situation is a special problem. I think we'd have to put it that way.

Now, you could get at this whole problem of missiles through disarmament arrangements on a general basis. We made some proposals about cutting down on nuclear delivery vehicles, 30 per cent reduction in stage 1 of our proposals. In general disarmament arrangements it might be possible to do something about the location of weapons as well as the total quantity.

But this is not something for a short-end discussion in connection with this particular case of Cuba. UNQUOTE END FTI
